

INTRODUCTION

JOSEPH RICHARDSON

My name is (Speaker's Full Name). I am (leadership position), and it's my pleasure to welcome you.

Our speaker today is Joseph Richardson.

Joe Richardson, Esq. is a law partner, law school professor, and powerful speaker and commentator. He leads the Racial & Economic Justice practice group at the law firm of McCune Wright Arevalo LLP. It is designed to be a voice for the community; combining litigation, community contact, and advocacy. The group encompasses areas including employment, civil rights, and consumer and small business class actions.

Joe is a passionate communicator. He was a budding rap star ahead of his time in middle school, and a published poet by 11th grade. At the University of Redlands, he was student body president, and turned his admiration of his favorite TV talk show host into regular on-campus gigs of stand-up comedy, and introducing live guests. Joe received his law degree from Northwestern University, where he was in student government and hosted on campus shows.

Joe speaks to college students on leadership, legal and ethical responsibility. He also hosts the Joespeak! Podcast, which features guests discussing local, state, and national issues. Joe can be regularly seen on the Law and Crime TV Network with legal commentary on current national trials and justice issues.

All his life, Joe has been a leader and bridgebuilder, brokering difficult conversations with diverse people, and making them laugh a bit along the way. He provides insight on the intersection between the law and social issues, empowering students and campus stakeholders to solve problems without picking sides, and to embrace the principles of ethical leadership.

Please welcome Joseph Richardson
